Unidentified Military Installation at Tyniste nad Orlici.

1. A large military installation, most probably an ammunition dump, is located in the forest north of Tyniste nad Orlici (051/G90). The whole area is surrounded by a two-meters-high barbed wire fence. At every entrance to the area there are wooden boards with the inscription "Military area - access to the forest strictly prohibited". At the gates and inside the area there are sentries armed with rifles. The sentries are without any insignia. Military units are being changed regularly. It is alleged that the sentries are afraid of the local population. A sentry told a man from the guard unit that the local population would probably prefer to move out from their homes if they knew what was stored in the military area, meaning most probably some kind of explosives.
2. There is lively construction activity inside the military area. Trucks belonging to the construction firm Konstruktiva, loaded with sand, cement, stones, and wooden boxes of various sizes, come to the area the whole day and sometimes also at night. Concrete foundations several meters deep are being laid inside the area. There are rumors that these foundations are to serve for a future radar station.

Unidentified Military Installation at Tyniste nad Orlici.

1. A large military installation, probably an ammunition dump, is located in the forest northwest of Tyniste nad Orlici (051/090) (see Annex). The whole area is surrounded by a ten meters high barbed wire fence. At every entrance to the area there are wooden boards with the inscription "Military area - access to the forest is strictly prohibited". At the gates and inside the area there are sentries armed with submachine guns wearing khaki shoulder boards without insignia.

The guard units are being changed after only a few weeks of duty in this area, allegedly to prevent them from becoming familiar with the local population. One enlisted man from the guard unit told a girl living in the vicinity of this area that the local population would probably prefer to move away from their homes if they knew what was stored in the military area, and that most probably some kind of explosives.

2. There is lively construction activity inside the military area. Trucks belonging to the construction firm Konstruktiva, loaded with cement, stones, and wooden boxes of various sizes, come to the area the whole day and so on. The foundations of a building, several meters deep, are being laid in the area. There are rumors that the foundations are to be for a future radar station.
